A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

One TJC: United in a Vision for Greatness

Beautiful people!

Sir Isaac Newton has been credited for a concept that has been traced back to Bernard of Chartres: "If I have seen further, it is by standing on the shoulders of giants."

We in East Texas are on the cusp of greatness, and it is because we are standing on the shoulders of the caring and courageous giants who created our beloved Tyler Junior College.

In 1926, under the visionary leadership of G.O. Clough and other champions for higher education, an entire community took a leap of faith to establish this institution, which continues to provide opportunities for thousands of students and their families and positively change the future of East Texas forever.

The alumni base of TJC is strong and comprised of brilliant minds, authentic friendships, and a can-do spirit. I am truly convinced that there is no other place on Earth like TJC, where we call home, and where the collective genius of intellect and collective heart of care intersect for the betterment of humanity.

The catalyst for our success and longevity includes the College's Board of Trustees, our faculty and staff, our supportive communities, and our heroic students. Our ability to leverage the core values that we hold dear will lead us to One TJC, and our synergy will have us on the way to becoming the No. 1 junior/community college in the country. Our students and communities deserve the very best.

I believe in the mission of community colleges, and I wholeheartedly believe in the mission of TJC.

Together, as One TJC, we will be unstoppable!

DID YOU KNOW?

TJC is one of only four Legacy Colleges designated by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to offer up to five baccalaureate degrees.

JUAN MEJIA

NAMED 7TH PRESIDENT OF TJC

By Elise Mullinix

On July 1, Dr. Juan E. Mejia became the seventh president of Tyler Junior College.

"TJC is a world-class, premier, and award-winning institution of higher learning, and I am honored and grateful by this privilege," he said.

A native Texan from the city of McAllen, Mejia completed his first postsecondary credential from Texas State Technical Institute, followed by his baccalaureate degree from Texas A&M University – Corpus Christi, and his master's and doctoral degrees from Texas A&M University – Kingsville.

He joined TJC in 2013 as vice president for student affairs and soon after assumed the role of provost and vice president for academic and student affairs. Most recently, he served as president for branch locations and district provost. Prior to TJC, Mejia served as vice president for academic affairs and chief academic officer at South Texas College, where he is also recognized as a founding member of the institution.

"I consider Dr. Michael Metke to be an exceptional leader, and I am fortunate to have him as a mentor and friend," he said. Metke recently retired as TJC chancellor, after serving 12 years at the College.

Mejia added, "TJC has done a stellar job of serving its communities for over 93 years, and I believe that we are in a position to tell the story of our powerhouse institution at the state, national and global level."

The Mejia era begins at TJC

Soon after he was named lone finalist for the position in May 2019, Mejia began crafting his vision for the College, now in the role of chief executive officer.

"I'm going to be very intentional about a number of things," he said.

"First and foremost, our priority is student and community success, through a culture of authentic caring, empowerment, excellence and integrity: We are focused on becoming One TJC, and that will triangulate culture, strategy and heart."

Mejia shared his personal values: He believes in being mission driven, in empowering people, in being ethical, in leaving a legacy, and in assuming accountability.

"The junior/community colleges that will distinguish themselves will all share common ingredients," he said, "and these include trustees with a spot-on vision about what they wish to accomplish, faculty, staff and administrators who have a commitment to excellence, students who are heroes, and communities that are pro-education and supportive.

"Our communities have been the cornerstone of the success of our institution."

Students college-ready and TJC student-ready

"You hear a lot about students needing to be college-ready when they come to us," he said, "but it is equally important that we position ourselves to be student-ready."

He added, "Throughout the years, our alumni make reference to how TJC made a difference in their lives and the lives of their families, because people at the College truly care."

Meet the family

Meela Mejia, wife of Dr. Mejia said, "People have been incredibly kind, and we appreciate how embracing everyone has been to our family. I have made wonderful friends here, and Juan and I plan to work hard to serve our beautiful East Texas region."

She added, "The kids all enjoy East Texas. The five boys, Óscar Eduardo, Jonathan Daniel, Juan Gerardo, Miguel Alejandro, and Gabriel Elijah, have immediately become fans of Apache Nation."

In addition, a few rescue pets add life to the Mejia household, including fearless pups, Chico Suave, Dr. Pepper and Bella Luna, and finicky felines, JoJo and Zoe.

In their spare time, the Mejias enjoy spending time outdoors, either at the local firing range, paintball course or biking trails.

Mejia jokes, "Our entire family enjoys distributing lead responsibly at some of the local gun ranges, and while we have not played recently because of an extremely busy past year, paintball is something that we enjoy. We also enjoy off-road biking on the beautiful East Texas trails and truly celebrate those who have dedicated time and energy to providing our communities with great mountain-bike trails."

Active in the community

Mejia represents TJC through his service on the boards of the Community College Baccalaureate Association, the Tyler Area Chamber of Commerce, Tyler Economic Development Corporation, Leadership Tyler and the East Texas Human Needs Network. He is a member of the Tyler Business Education Council, the Tyler Area Partnership 4 Education, the Smith County Seat Coalition and the Lindale Music Friendly Community Designation Committee.

He has previously served on the boards of the National Council for Workforce Education, the Texas Associate of College Technical Educators, the Literacy Council of Tyler, CASA of East Texas, and the Tyler Innovation Pipeline.

He closed by saying, "I look forward to serving the beautiful people of East Texas!"

Higher Learning

Student achievement begins with academics

By Elise Mullinix

Dr. Betsy Ott, TJC biology professor, works with students in the biology lab.

One of Dr. Juan Mejia's primary objectives as president is to continue Tyler Junior College's trajectory as an academic powerhouse and creator of graduates who are equipped to continue their studies at a university or immediately enter the workforce.

TJC is home to more than 130 degree and certificate programs as well as two bachelor's degrees and a third in the development stage. TJC's first baccalaureate degree program, a Bachelor of Science in dental hygiene, began in August 2016. Its second, a Bachelor of Applied Technology in healthcare technology and medical systems, began January 2019. Plans are in motion for a third, a Bachelor of Applied Technology in public safety management.

In December 2016, TJC advanced from a Level I institution of higher education to Level II. The designation was made by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools/Commission on Colleges, which provides accreditation for institutions of higher learning.

TJC was among the first four Texas junior/community colleges with a Level II accreditation status, along with Brazosport College (located 254 miles from Tyler), Midland College (428 miles) and South Texas College (539 miles). TJC is the only one authorized to offer the Bachelor of Science degree.

"We're proud to have the Legacy College designation by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board," Mejia said.

Griselle Esparza, Spring 2019 graduate

"It is our focus to not duplicate what our partner universities offer. We are here to meet the community's needs while focused on degree attainment and regional prosperity. That's our real claim to fame."

As evidenced by the continued growth of its Presidential Honors program and the Rusk and TJC Promise scholarship initiatives, TJC is enrolling unprecedented numbers of high-achieving students. TJC's Alpha Omicron Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society consistently ranks among the top chapters in the nation.

Students are graduating from TJC in record numbers and going on to stellar futures.

A prime example is Griselle Esparza, a May 2019 graduate, who was one of only 61 community college students nationwide to win the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation's Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship.

She will receive up to $40,000 annually for a maximum of three years to complete her bachelor's degree.

Esparza, a biology major of Tyler, is originally from Monterrey, Mexico. At TJC, she served as vice president of scholarships in the Alpha Omicron Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, served as vice president of the Student Senate and was a member of the Hispanic Student Organization (HSO). She was one of 50 students nationwide to be named a Bronze Scholar on the 2019 Coca-Cola Academic Team; and in 2018, she was named a 2018 Coca-Cola Leaders of Promise Scholar.

This fall, she plans to attend Boston University, where she will major in biology.

"I will forever be thankful for this amazing opportunity to continue my education, make my life-long visions a reality, and become part of the inspiring Cooke Scholar community," she said. "Tyler Junior College has been such a blessing in my life. I am so thankful for everyone at TJC, especially for my incredible advisors and professors who have given me endless support throughout my time as an Apache."

Advancing the community college mission

The greatest blessing of the community college mission – providing access to higher education to all who seek it – can also be one of its challenges.

Mejia said, "As an open institution of higher learning, it can be challenging – not only for TJC, but for other community colleges and for regional universities – because we enroll students who might not be as prepared academically."

Early College High School programs in the Chapel Hill and Tyler ISDs have been instrumental to student success, and the Rusk and TJC Promise programs have cultivated inroads between TJC and area high schools to create a college-going culture.

With the Promise programs, students are offered an earned path to higher education by making college accessible and affordable. Scholarship standards are based on student performance in high school, which will instill behaviors early on to ensure students will be successful in high school, college and beyond.

TJC recently recognized its fourth class of scholars from the Rusk TJC Citizens Promise Scholarship program, which was established in 2014.

In Fall 2020, TJC will welcome its inaugural class of TJC Promise scholars from the College's six-city tax district, including Chapel Hill, Grand Saline, Lindale, Tyler, Van and Winona.

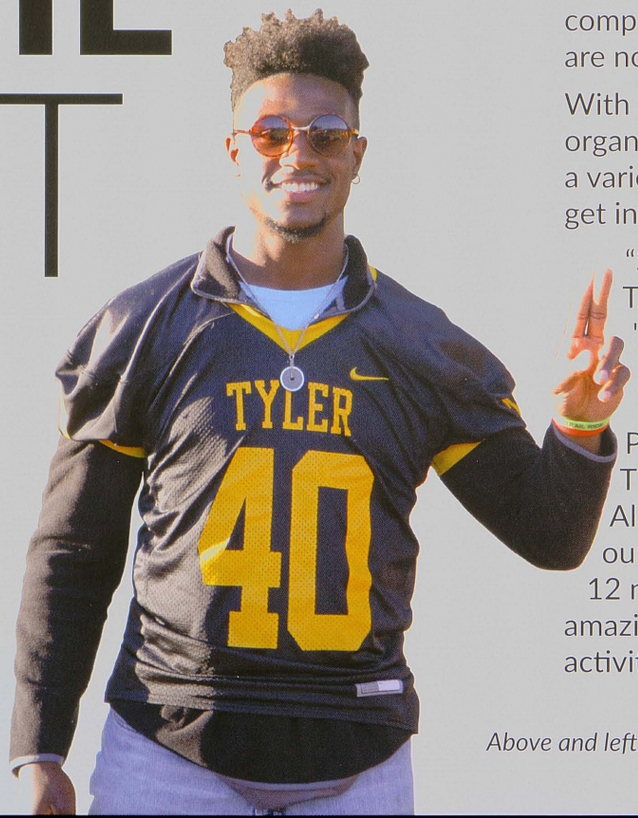
APACHE SPIRIT

Student engagement fosters a sense of community, belonging

By Elise Mullinix



Research consistently shows that students who are engaged in campus life are more likely to stay in school and complete their degree than students who are not connected to the institution.

With more than 50 clubs and organizations, Tyler Junior College offers a variety of opportunities for students to get involved outside the classroom.

"Student engagement is vital," said TJC President Dr. Juan E. Mejia, "and we are so fortunate to have an active Student Government Association, a strong Honors Program, among the very best Phi Theta Kappa Chapters with our Alpha Omicron, legacy groups like our Apache Band, our Apache Belles, 12 nationally ranked athletic teams, amazing performing arts, and many other activities to keep students engaged."

Creating future leaders

Student activities can also be a training ground for future leaders.

Brooks Melton came to TJC with his political aspirations fully formed.

"I've always been kind of politically inclined, so I wanted to find an avenue to express that at TJC," he said. "Everyone said I needed to get involved in Student Senate. I didn't know anything about it, but I showed up at the first meeting and attended regularly after that."

Melton, a mechanical engineering major from Tyler, was soon appointed sergeant-at-arms and was elected senate president for the 2019-2020 academic year. He was also elected to serve as this year's president of the Texas Junior College Student Government Association.

"Getting involved on campus has given me a drive and motivation to not only be better in my academic career but in my life overall," he said.

After graduating from TJC, Melton plans to transfer to either Texas A&M University or Southern Methodist University. Eventually, he hopes to work in the energy sector and enter politics.

He said TJC has also expanded his world view.

"Being brought up in the bubble that I was, in a private Christian school, this was a learning experience," he said. "Coming to TJC, I've been exposed to a wider array of beliefs. What I've really learned is how to work with others who see the world through a different lens than I do.

"That's been one of the biggest blessings: to be able to walk in different people's shoes and to see the world from how they see it. I may not necessarily agree with them, but I can certainly see where they're coming from."

As Student Senate president, Melton will also be interacting fairly frequently with TJC's new president, Dr. Juan E. Mejia.

TJC Student Senate President Brooks Melton with Dr. Juan E. Mejia.

"My first interaction with Dr. Mejia was in a meeting of our Student Senate executive board last year," he said. "He came in and greeted all of us and was very inquisitive. He wanted to know all about us and what our majors and hometowns were. By the questions he was asking, I could tell that he cared and was very interested in us."

Then, something unexpected happened.

"During the meeting, I noticed he didn't do a lot of talking but rather he let us do the talking," Melton said. "While we were discussing concerns that TJC students had, he was just taking notes. The biggest thing that impressed me was that not only did he listen and take notes, we got results from those meetings as well. He followed up. That was a big thing."

Taking student involvement to scale

Lately, Mejia has been taking notes on how to take what is already working and expand it so that more students become involved, included and ultimately successful.

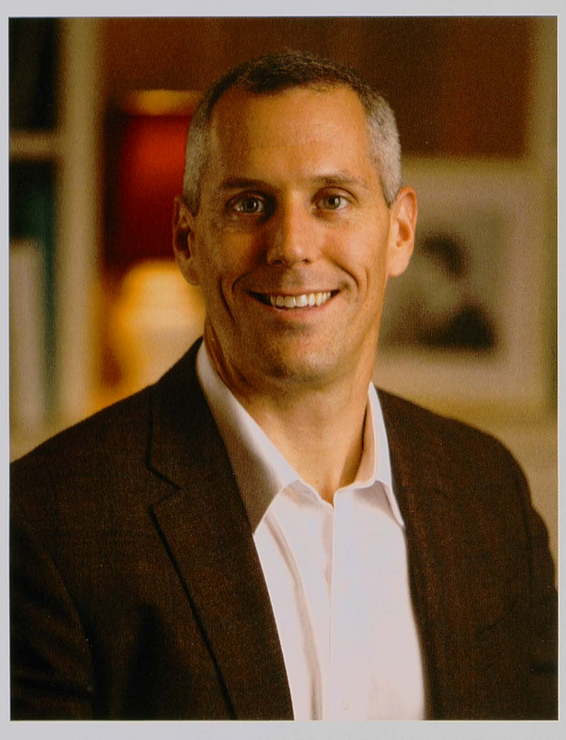
"In addition to our legacy groups and athletic programs we have that are very strong, how do we take that to scale so that every student feels that they have a connection to the college in some capacity?" Mejia asked.

"Theoretically, every student should have something that connects them to the College in some way. When we find a way to connect every student to something on campus, that will be the innovation.

"We're going to need to see champions come from within the College to say, 'I've got an idea that's not going to be the same as what is.' It's the reinventing of the College to be everything we can be."

Strong enrollment and student success add $2.6 million in state funding to TJC

By State Rep. Matt Schaefer



The simple truth is that Tyler Junior College, and community colleges around Texas, provide a better return on taxpayer investment than many alternatives. We worked hard to make sure that fact was recognized in Austin. I am happy to report that the 86th Legislative Session was a good one for TJC.

The state budget provides significant new funding for community colleges. TJC received an increase of $2.6 million (7.82%) for a total appropriation of more than $36 million for the 2020-21 biennium.

Results matter, especially in education. TJC has welcomed a funding model that directly incentives academic completion. This session, we granted the request of the Texas Association of Community Colleges to add greater emphasis on outcomes-based funding. Therefore, in addition to increased core operations funding, TJC will benefit from its long track record of "getting it done" in the classroom.

TJC will benefit from its long track record of "getting it done" in the classroom.

Losing academic credit when transferring to four-year schools remains a costly problem for students. We made progress toward a solution with the passage of Senate Bill 25, which I was happy to co-sponsor. The bill contains multiple measures to improve transfer pathways and reduce excess credit hours. This is a win for students and taxpayers.

Likewise, we passed legislation to help focus the efforts of dual credit students with at least 15 credit hours by requiring them to file a degree plan. Through better advising, dual credit students will be less likely to take courses unrelated to their degree, thereby saving time and money.

The mission to provide skills training for careers that don't require a four-year degree got a boost of $44.8 million. The Skills Development Fund helps community colleges provide customized job-training programs for businesses to train new workers or upgrade the skills of the existing workforce.

It is a high honor to represent Tyler Junior College in the Texas Legislature, and it's easy to make our case when TJC's long history of excellence speaks for itself.

I am grateful for the counsel and leadership provided by Dr. Mike Metke, which I am confident will continue under Dr. Juan E. Mejia, who already has a stellar reputation statewide.

State Rep. Matt Schaefer is a sixth-generation Texan and was first elected to the Texas House of Representatives, House District 6 in 2012. He also serves as a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy Reserve and is self-employed in real estate and law. He and his wife, Jasilyn, and their two children are proud to call Tyler their home.

Message from the TJC Board of Trustees

The Tyler Junior College Board of Trustees believes in the mission of our institution, and we remain steadfast to the vision, established in 1926, of doing all we can to make a positive difference in the lives of those whom we represent.

Through our faculty and staff, students are given a great opportunity to better their lives, and I believe that TJC is one of the best educational institutions in the nation.

Any comments or suggestions on how to improve TJC or better serve our area are always welcome.

We thank you for the opportunity to serve.

Community leaders offer messages in support of Dr. Juan E. Mejia

Since he arrived six years ago, Mejia has represented TJC through community partnerships and in service to others

"Dr. Mejia comes to this position with tremendous experience, much good will, and a genuine commitment to the students, faculty, and staff of Tyler Junior College. He brings hope and enthusiasm to all of his endeavors. I respect him as a policy advisor and trust him as a friend. TJC has been placed in good hands, and we all will be lending our support."

Senator Bryan Hughes
Texas Senator

"As the only academic medical center in East Texas, UT Health Science Tyler is proud to work closely with TJC. We have a great history and special relationship with Juan, and we are very happy and excited with his selection. Higher education and the community will benefit immensely from his leadership."

Dr. Kirk Calhoun
President, The University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler

"The University of Texas at Tyler and Tyler Junior College have a strong history. As the region's most impactful educational partnership, tens of thousands of East Texans call both institutions their alma mater. We are delighted that the TJC Board selected Dr. Mejia to lead this fine organization, and we look forward to expanding our partnership for years to come."

Dr. Michael Tidwell
President, The University of Texas at Tyler

"Dr. Juan Mejia is one of the most influential leaders I have had the opportunity to connect with. His passion for education and community involvement shows that he truly cares about Tyler's students. With all Dr. Mejia has accomplished, he is a great example of what you can achieve with hard work and dedication. Dr. Mejia has shown the community he is dedicated to the betterment of the students of TJC. He values the importance of education and will lead by example; not just to TJC students but to all students who will hear his story or have the opportunity to meet him. As an alumna of Tyler Junior College, I am excited for its future and its students under the leadership of Dr. Mejia."

Karina Macedo
Hispanic Professionals Association of Tyler

"I cannot be more impressed with how Dr. Mejia has made such a great impact in this community in his relatively brief time here. It is rare and impressive for a person to influence such substantial outcomes in the institution where they work in such a short period. I've also seen him be tremendously engaged in the community, being a catalyst for profound waves of positive change through other organizations such as Leadership Tyler, Tyler Business Education Council, East Texas Leadership Summit and many more."

Brian Brandt
CEO, Core Insights

"Since arriving at Tyler Junior College, Dr. Mejia has been immediately involved in the community and helping to make the Tyler/Smith County a more successful area in many ways. Juan is currently serving on both the Chamber and Business Education Council boards and has made impactful contributions to both organizations. I look forward to working with him in his new role at TJC. He is a special individual and I am proud to have him as a friend."

Henry Bell
COO, Tyler Chamber of Commerce

"Dr. Mejia's commitment to education stretches beyond the students at TJC, it extends to the entire community. His tireless energy, humility, and compassion, along with his excellent leadership abilities, will meet the demands of a fast-paced and ever-changing future."

Michael and Lisa Lujan
Co-founders, Mentoring Minds

"Dr. Mejia is an asset to our community. His wisdom, motivation and shared passion for education have helped to shape and enhance Tyler and the East Texas region. He continues to pioneer and serve as a role model for current and future leaders. We are truly ecstatic about the coming years of Dr. Mejia's leadership at Tyler Junior College."

Nancy Rangel
President/CEO Tyler Hispanic Business Alliance

"I believe that Dr. Mejia is an excellent selection for the presidency. He has a demonstrated record of collaboration, support of educational initiatives and student engagement. We have worked well over the years, and I look forward to future endeavors."

Dr. Dwight Fennell
President, Texas College

"Dr. Mejia brings to his presidency a broad perspective, with his history at TJC and experience from larger campuses in other regions. His disciplined, methodical leadership will position the institution for steady, deliberate growth that will benefit its graduates and Tyler as a whole for many generations. His humble, authentic demeanor, quick wit and humor make him approachable and engaging to his staff, faculty, students and community leaders, alike. We are truly blessed to have him lead us into the next successful decade at Tyler Junior College. Congratulations, President Mejia!"

Amy McCullough
Presiding Judge, City of Tyler Municipal Court

"Dr. Mejia is the perfect choice to be the next leader for TJC. His passion and love for this community is second to none. And, his steadiness in demeanor and vision makes him perfectly suited to give TJC a firm footing to continue its present successes and exceed those successes by a wide margin. Having earned the admiration of the students and respect of the faculty, the sky is the limit for Dr. Mejia and for TJC under his leadership."

Nathaniel Moran
Smith County Judge

"Dr Juan Mejia has been a valuable resource to the Tyler Area Chamber of Commerce and the Tyler Economic Development Council over the past several years. We are looking forward to continuing our interaction with him as president of TJC."

Tom Mullins
President/CEO
Tyler Economic Development Council

"Dr. Mejia has the heart and mind of a servant leader. He has been actively engaged in serving the East Texas community from the moment he arrived. I simply cannot think of a better person to lead TJC into the future. He is not only an asset to TJC and East Texas but a shining example of how to lead with passion and purpose."

Shannon Dacus
Board Chair, Tyler Economic Development Council

"Dr. Mejia has a track record of strong leadership, commitment to innovation and support of public-private partnerships that make Tyler so unique and so prosperous. His service as part of the Innovation Pipeline Board, Tyler's first makerspace, has been integral to the operation's success. He will be a tremendous asset to TJC as president, just as he continues to be an asset to the entire East Texas community."

Martin Heines
Mayor, City of Tyler
